Women's Rights.

The Memphis Appeal in its report of the recent meeting of the Tennessee Bar Association has the following to say of one of Pulaski's most distinguished attorneys:

Mr. N. Smithson, of Pulaski, delivered an address on the legal rights of married women. The essayist states that he had selected this as his subject because he regarded "women's rights" as a live issue, and the laws governing the rights of women as wholly unjust and radically wrong. He thought the laws should be modified so as to conform with the spirit of the age. Among savages women were in slavery. The more enlightenment that prevailed, the more rights and liberties were accorded to women. No progress has been made toward securing to married women the enjoyment of their property until 1849-50. Since then various acts have been passed that give to the husband and wife, as between themselves, were substantially, if not exactly, as they were at common law. Tennessee has made very little progress toward justice to married women.

He caught the craze, quit his business for five days, losing thereby $50 or $60, hired a horse and buggy at a cost of $10, drove some thirty or forty miles to find a man that was going to marry, bought him for $40, came home and invested $75 or $100 in certificates on him and was quietly waiting for his marriage proofs to come. He believed that he would get a good size at least $500 on his investment. Now there are drawbacks in this as all other classes of business. The proofs didn't come, because the fellow's girl went back on him. The lumberman was out after the next day.

Senator Harris' Speech.

It has been many a day since such a speech was made to such an audience in Pulaski as that made by Senator John G. Harris in Antioch Hall yesterday. He discussed national politics at great length, showing the attitude and tendencies of the two parties upon the tariff and other leading questions, and the opposing views of the people and the country by the republican party and how such gross wrongs were sometimes prevented and always opposed by the democratic party—thus showing the great work being done for the people and the country by our party. He showed that the people of Tennessee paid annually indirectly in the purchase of clothing, implements, etc., taxes to the amount of $27,500,000. About one dollar went into the treasury where three went into the manufacturer's pocket. This is protection so called. The democratic party propose to regulate the tariff and do away with this gigantic system of gouging the people. They will pay this without knowing it, and yet in the matter of the state debt they allow a difference of only about $500,000 annually to divide them and thus weaken the party and discontinue to perform the great work of saving this $27,500,000 to the people. He was particularly forcible upon this line of argument. He gave a succinct history of the propositions to settle the debt, showing his consistency and the inconsistency of the bolters and urged the people to unite and assist in strengthening the party for the great work that is before it of delivering the people from the bondage of monopolists and the misrule of republicanism. Space is wanting to follow his argument. Senator Harris is a candidate for re-election. We hope our nominees are for him and we should like to know, although we would not have them to declare themselves if they think proper to decline. He is one of the great men of the times and Tennessee would do herself great honor to claim his eminent services again.

We daily read of the rope ending many a mispent life; but cholera insensibility, worms and bowel disorders of children were much dreaded until the introduction of Dr. Moffett's Teething (Teething Powders).

H. Solinsky, under Antioch Hall, is rapidly opening a splendid stock of all goods. By careful study of the wants of this people and close attention to business, he has built up a splendid trade, and he offers now a large stock of seasonable and stylish goods of all grades at reasonable prices. He invites a visit to his store, and he is sure that he can make it to your interest to trade with him.

Hope for Frankards.

My husband had drunken habits he could not overcome until Parker's Ginger Tonic took away his thirst for stimulants, and gave him energy and gave him strength to attend to business.—Cincinnati Lady. 4t-3

Thousands Use It, Why Hesitate?

Joy to the world! Woman is free!—Among the many discoveries looking to the happiness and amelioration of the human race, none is entitled to higher consideration than Dr. J. Bradford's Female Regulator, "Woman's Best Friend." It is a medicine emanated from numbers less peculiar to her sex. Before its magic power all irregularities of the womb vanish. It cures "whites," suppresses the "menstrues," removes uterine obstructions, strengthens the system, braces the nerves and purifies the blood, as thousands of women will testify.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 28, 1877.

I have been selling Bradford's Female Regulator for years. It continues popular—its efficacy its being all that is claimed for it. I can recall instances in which it afforded relief after all the usual remedies had failed.

Huntley's dramatic company presented the beautiful emotional drama, "Woman's Devotion," at the Opera House last night, and won the admiration and applause of the large audience that turned out to witness the performance. The characters were well presented, especially that of "Clare Le Moyne," by Miss Florence Kennedy; "Blanche Craig," by Mr. John W. Reid; and "Joe," by Mr. J. H. Huntley. The character of "Joe" was also well sustained. In fact, the case was an excellent one throughout, and the acting was very fine. This company will appear again to night in a splendid drama entitled, "Lancashire Lass."—[St. Paul Gazette.]

Huntley's dramatic company are to appear here. They have three stars supported by eighteen artists and a full brass band. They secured the services of Miss Mattie Tate of Louisville, Ky., a first class milliner, to preside over my trimming department and will endeavor to give satisfaction to customers. Opening commences Oct. 9th, 1892, continuing one week.

Congressional Convention.

Pursuant to a call of the executive committee the congressional convention of the democratic party of the seventh district of Tennessee met in Pulaski on yesterday, the 27th inst. By half past two o'clock in the afternoon the several delegations from the various counties had assembled in Antioch Hall, and a few minutes later Chairman J. L. Peary called the convention to order.

Mr. Peary was nominated and elected temporary chairman of the convention. L. D. McCord was elected temporary secretary, and G. W. Curran of Williamson and W. B. Tomlinson of Maury appointed assistant secretaries. The chair then announced the convention ready for business.

A motion prevailed to appoint a committee on credentials consisting of one delegate from each county. The chair at the suggestions of the respective delegations made the following appointments: W. L. Grigsby of Dickson; R. A. Mitchell of Giles; W. P. Clark of Hickman; J. H. Stewart of Lawrence; W. J. Stockard of Lewis; J. H. Akin of Maury; J. H. Henderson of Williamson and W. S. Stone of Wayne.

The convention, in order to give this committee time to report then adjourned to meet at 7:30 o'clock. The convention met at the appointed hour. The committee on credentials was not ready to report, and requested that they be allowed further time. The convention adjourned to meet at 9 o'clock this morning.

The Speaking Monday.

Dr. E. Edmundson and Maj. B. F. Matthews, candidates for the senate, spoke in Pulaski Monday. Dr. Edmundson handles Maj. Matthews without gloves and shows up the inconsistencies of his official record to a mastery. Maj. Matthews responds with amazing cleverness, but he cannot get from under the weight of innumerable charges that are hurled at him. Dr. Edmundson will poll the entire democratic strength of the county. Maj. Matthews is making a very serious mistake in opposing the democratic nominee and we apprehend that the people will speak their condemnation of his official conduct at the ballot box in severest and unanimous terms. The opponents of the other nominees are no less blameable. It is high time that the enemies of the party were made to feel the wrath of an outraged people. When they come in sheep's clothing, pretending to be democrats, themselves they deserve a double measure of condemnation. Draw the line straight and require a man to toe the mark, and when he refuses, kick him out and treat him as the enemy he is. These are times that demand loyalty rather than teachery and the people have a right to hold a man to severe account who jeopardizes their interests.

Gileau, the assassin, and all the Presidents of the United States, many of the crowned heads and final kings, are represented in life-like wax statues and presented in W. Cole's gallery which is to exhibit in Pulaski Tuesday, October 10.

To the Voters of Giles County.

Gentlemen: As I am a candidate to represent Giles County in the lower house of the general assembly of the State of Tennessee, I desire to lay before you the platform upon which I stand.

I am in favor of repealing every dollar of the state debt. From the simple fact that I think it unjust; because it has been paid, and the already hard pressed people of Tennessee are in no condition to pay an unjust debt.

To talk about the railroad bonds being repaid is utter nonsense. Every citizen can remember the tax that Giles County paid to build the railroad from Pulaski to Nashville. Two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, if I mistake not. The bonds of which the bond-holders claim to hold against the people of Tennessee to-day, are an elected I propose to do all that I can to repudiate the unjust debt that now hangs over which is to exhibit in Pulaski Tuesday, October 10.

Believing that the people of Giles County are wise and patriotic, and that I will close for the present. Yours Respectfully,

HENRY C. HANNA.

The title of the great show is too long to print, but we will state that it is to exhibit in Pulaski, Tuesday, October 10.
